Course Overview:

Welcome to ME 291: Job Finding. The purpose of this course is to help students find success in life by learning detailed effective strategies for job finding. It is important for students to start their job search early. The entire objective of this course is to help you learn how to implement the most efficient and successful job search method we have found. This course will "teach you how to fish" so that when you are looking for your next job (in about 5 years on average) you will be amazing at it then too. We want our students to find the very best jobs for them.

The job search is extremely important, but very easy to procrastinate as there is no real pain until one becomes desperate. And there is zero instant gratification because it takes months to see the fruits of your labors. This course will provide structure to keep yourself moving toward your career goals.

The university also prohibits sexual harassment—including sexual violence—committed by or against students, university employees, and visitors to campus. As outlined in university policy, sexual harassment, dating violence, domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking are considered forms of "Sexual Misconduct" prohibited by the university.

University policy requires all university employees in a teaching, managerial, or supervisory role to report all incidents of Sexual Misconduct that come to their attention in any way, including but not limited to face-to-face conversations, a written class assignment or paper, class discussion, email, text, or social media post. Incidents of Sexual Misconduct should be reported to the Title IX Coordinator at t9coordinator@byu.edu or (801) 422-8692 or 1085 WSC. Reports may also be submitted through EthicsPoint at the BYU Title IX website or 1-888-238-1062 (24-hours a day).

BYU offers confidential resources for those affected by Sexual Misconduct, including the university's Victim Advocate, as well as a number of non-confidential resources and services that may be helpful. Additional information about Title IX, the university's Sexual Misconduct Policy, reporting requirements, and resources can be found at the BYU Title IX website or by contacting the university's Title IX Coordinator.
